Frequently Asked Questions:

Q: Is there a charge to use the legal hotline?

A: The legal hotline is free once you have registered with NRA and received a member ID number.

Q: How often can I call the legal hotline?

A: There is no limit on how many times you can call. Once you are registered you can call as often as needed.

Q: If I need legal representation am I required to retain your firm?

A: Use of the legal hotline does not require that you retain our firm for further legal matters.

Q: Are all phone calls to the legal hotline confidential?

A: While there is no expectation of attorney-client privilege when using the hotline, all phone calls will remain confidential. If an opposing party to your matter or question at hand were to call the hotline with questions we would still answer questions to that party due to the non attorney-client relationship. However, we will not share any information that either party has provided.

Q: If no one answers the legal hotline can I leave a message?

A: You can leave a message with your name, access number, and a number in which you can be reached at. All calls will be returned within 24 hours. You can also reach the hotline by e-mail at Hotline@thehoppelawfirm.com
